

It is my understanding that the FCC is currently considering LPFM broadcasting and that this would displace/replace some currently opporating stations such as Air 1. I would find this a great disservice as they provide much need local information I am unable to recieve any other way. They also provide a form of entertainment that would not be provided by another station. I live in an area where radio and tv options are very limited(some channels unrecievable)as such they provide weather, traffic, public announcements and other news items I cannot recieve otherwise. I am a financial supporter of this station and would hate to lose something Iam willing to pay to recieve. In a day and age when freedom is limited and options few it is refreshing to have an alternative such as Air 1.

Thank you for your time
